

Chaperone Guidelines

Please make sure the students:

1. Read panels and engage with the exhibit.
2. Are respectful of the exhibit:
  - In a few places, students are invited to lift a jerry can of water, go into a hut, etc. However, they should not lie on cots or beds, handle things that are clearly “props,” move props, or write on panels.
3. Are respectful of the people portrayed in the exhibit:
  - Sometimes students are uncomfortable, so they laugh and make light of a serious situation. Please speak to the students and encourage them to be respectful. Ask what it would feel like if they lived in this situation.
4. Are respectful of others in the group:
  - Do not allow loud talking or laughing.
5. Stay together:
  - Try to keep the group fairly clustered. Some students want to zoom ahead and some want to read every word. Try to maintain a moderate pace and encourage the quickest students to slow down and take in the exhibit. If there are two chaperones per group, station one at the head of the group and one at the rear.

Remember that this experience is for the students.

We would love for you to return with an adult group or your family so you can have an individual experience, but remember that this tour is for the students and they need your attentive guidance to stay on track.

Helpful Info:

1. Restrooms and water fountains are located just past the Tsunami wave.
2. Food and drinks are not allowed in the exhibit.
3. Photos are allowed in the exhibit, but please do not allow texting or taking phone calls.

Thank you for your part in making a difference!
